Boston!

Four years ago what started as a dream of Jess Tse, MD, continues to yield fruit today. Last Friday evening we started our third METS Whole Person Care Conference at Harvard Medical School. Right, Bob speaks to those attending the Boston Healthcare Fellowship monthly dinner that began the conference. Many of these attended the conference which continued the next day.

Few things show God's creativity more than fall in New England. We arrived in Boston a few days early for a short vacation to explore the backroads of Maine. We snapped this picture outside Acadia National Park near Bar Harbor.

Our family is growing! Jordan and Jenny recently shared they are expecting their second child - our second grandbaby! Clearly Caleb cannot wait to be a big brother.

As we witness multiplication in God's family and our own family, thank you for journeying with us in the adventure of serving Christ and living life. We are increasingly grateful for your friendship and your investments in all God is doing.
