

An Overwhelming Objective?

So if your mission includes more places than you could ever go yourself, how do you reach beyond your own borders? That was a question we pondered decades ago. How do we expand a vision of launching more Christian healthcare professionals and students to care for both the medical and spiritual needs of their patients and, in turn, see many of them come to Christ? “Bring them here,” God seemed to be answering.

For the past 20 years, that has been a cornerstone of our strategy. While we still do conferences in various locations and speak at universities nationwide often with encouraging results, we see significant fruit when we mentor, disciple, and train local students during the school year. Plus, we bring others here from across the US and beyond for 5 weeks in the summer. Then when they return home...

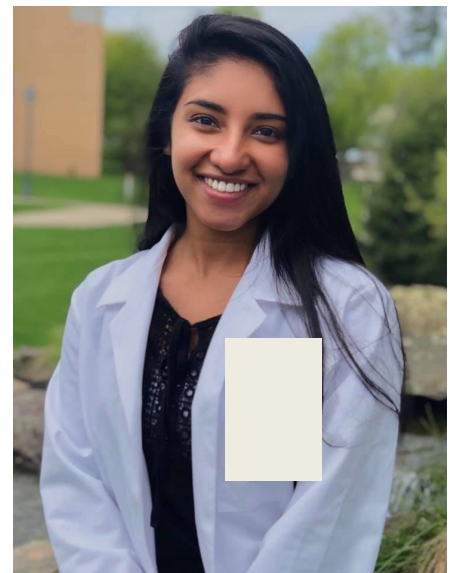

Erica is a registered nurse at hospital in the central US. That’s more than 1,000 miles from Redlands. We have yet to visit this facility. In 2017, she spent her summer in Redlands and caught the vision God has given us.

Erica recently did a quick presentation on spiritual care to a committee for the unit on which she serves. The team was impressed, and unknown to her, made arrangements for her to do a more in-depth spiritual care presentation last Tuesday to more fellow professionals!

That same exact day, Shelby, an occupational therapy student (some 2000 miles from Redlands and another place on our “yet to be visited list”) was meeting with a key official of her school. The person was keenly interested in hearing more about her 2019 summer in Redlands and had requested the meeting.

As she shared about learning to do spiritual care, the official became so excited and was supportive of Shelby’s desire to see more of her Christian colleagues on campus equipped to do the same. She is now initiating with university faculty to make her dream come true. Pray God would give her Today—and every day—you are expanding the vision God has given us. He is working in places neither of us have been. You are a part of that. You are making a difference. Thank you!
