

Real and Virtual Journeys

Prior to the pandemic, Bob would spend several weeks each year traveling to different health science campuses to speak and teach about the importance of providing whole person care to patients. Christian healthcare professionals and students were often thrilled to discover that they could easily and appropriately live out their faith in their clinics and hospitals. For those who recognized the value/need for more extensive training, Bob could inform them about our professional conferences and our summer student preceptorship.

The face-to-face interaction allowed on these trips was invaluable. However, these trips were limited due to available time and ongoing local ministry opportunities in Southern California.

Once COVID ramped up, travel was severely limited. Many groups and gatherings were no longer meeting in person.

Like you, we soon discovered virtual meetings. Like you, we could now walk into our study at home and instantly be connected with large groups of people thousands of miles away. No crowded airports, no rising at 3 :30 am to catch the first flight out, no weather delays!

Weeks back when COVID waned, we made some in-person connections via some travel. When COVID surged, we connected virtually.

Both have been effective. Both have allowed us to cover more ground and connect with students we may have missed otherwise. Thank you for journeying faithfully with us during this continued season of adaptation and adjustment.
