

“I really don’t have anything. Maybe I should find something that will help.”

Bob settled into his seat on the train coming home from Los Angeles. Seated across was a young Asian lady enroute to see her aging parents in declining health. Her strain was apparent. She was getting off at the next stop.

Bob asked if she was a person of faith. “No, but maybe I need to consider that.” She asked Bob, “Are you a Christian? Does it help?” Bob explained the difference Christ has made in his life. “I wish we could talk more, but I know you’re getting off the train soon. Can you pull out your phone and launch your browser? Go to EveryPerson.com. Bookmark it.”

“This site explains how God can help. It talks about how we can connect with God.”

“I’m going to spend time reading this site this afternoon. Thank you.” And with that, she was gone.

Several years ago fellow Cru staff Marilyn Adamson dreamed of a website for non-Christians. She had come to Christ in college from an agnostic background. She understood how that population thinks. She started EveryPerson.Com, EveryStudent.com, and StartingWithGod.com. Available in multiple languages, the sites reach worldwide. In the first 4 months of 2024, there were 28.8 million visits. 498,021 said they accepted Christ while there—that’s over 4,100 each day!

A few days later, Bob was training family medicine residents as they saw patients. A student was in for a post surgery visit. She had undergone an emergency procedure to remove a cyst on her ovary. Afterwards, her mom had taken her to church where friends prayed for her recovery which had since been pain free and easy. Although the student had not believed in God earlier, this experience enhanced her receptivity.

Time was short and more patients were waiting. “Pull out your phone, launch your browser. EverytStudent.com. Bookmark it!” Her attention was riveted on the site. “I’m going to look at this later.”
